There are 2 ways to find information in AmJur2d. One is the index. These vols. are at the end of the set. The other way is the table of contents located in the beginning of each subject section.

Index

Use if you do not know which subject

Where to look for information about dog bites

Subject Heading embolded in black

Table of Contents

Use if you already know the subject heading

Check here for dog bites

There are 2 ways to the same answer

2 ways to the same answer

B. DOMESTIC ANIMALS
1. IN GENERAL: BASIS OF LIABILITY
§ 96. Knowledge of dangerous or vicious propensity § 97. Liability based on general propensity of animal § 98. What constitutes vicious or dangerous propensity § 99. What constitutes knowledge of dangerous or vicious characteristics; and disposition of animal § 100. Imputation to owner of knowledge of another person § 101. Statute of lien on animal with respect to establishing scienter § 102. Negligence as basis of liability § 103. Proximate cause § 104. Joint or several liability § 105. Liability independent of ownership § 106. Damages

2. PARTICULAR KINDS OF ANIMALS
a. Dogs

§ 107. Generally
§ 108. Sufficiency of, and circumstances charging owner with, knowledge § 109. Injuries by rabid or mad dogs § 110. Fright causing bodily injury § 111. Liability imposed by statute § 112. Persons liable; joint or several liability
ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS TO APPELLATE REVIEW §§ 1-230

2. Particular Kinds of Animals §§ 107-117

a. Dogs §§ 107-112

§ 107. Generally

Dogs are presumed to be dangerous unless they show a propensitv to attack. The test for a dog's dangerousness has been formulated in many jurisdictions by determining whether the dog has injured a human being or a domestic animal. The test is usually stated in terms of "unprovoked" attacks. (In the absence of any such evidence, the presumption of dangerousness is rebutted by the defendant's failure to produce evidence to the contrary.)

Subject Heading

Research References

Complaint, petition, or declaration—Personal injuries—By dog, 1 C. Am. Jour. Fed.
Decisions and Practice Forms, Animals § 216.

Causes

Dog owner was entitled to economic damages in the amount of $1000 for veterinary treatment, supplemental dietary pills, and travel which were required to restore her ten year old dachshund to health. The condition was caused by excessive, unprovoked attacks by dogs, and the dachshund was thus entitled to the full amount of damages.

4 Am Jur 2d ANIMALS § 107

not caused by the puncture but by de facto pain from the bite of the dog and the co-pet was therefore entitled to the damages.

2. Particular Kinds of Animals §§ 107-117

a. Dogs §§ 107-112

§ 107. Generally

Dogs are presumed to be dangerous unless they show a propensitv to attack. The test for a dog's dangerousness has been formulated in many jurisdictions by determining whether the dog has injured a human being or
a domestic animal. The test is usually stated in terms of "unprovoked"
attacks. (In the absence of any such evidence, the presumption of dangerousness is rebutted by the defendant's failure to produce evidence
to the contrary.)

Supplement (replaced annually)

Check pocket part in back of volume

Footnote references

Case law, Codes,
Secondary sources

American Jurisprudence 2d

Look for subject heading on the spine

Once you find the correct subject heading, find the appropriate volume.

Not every section has supplement.