Other features of the program include hyper-link cross-references, topical browsing, note-taking, and multi-book searching.

Access: Available on the Library "Stand-Alone" pc in the reference area.

Special Terms & Functions: "My Library" on the top toolbar opens up a master table of contents with a hierarchical listing of all the resources available. You can select how to arrange the display of works: by author, title, or subject. Click on the plus and minus icons to the left of the entries to open or close levels of text material. Double-click or right-click on a book title and your selection immediately displays in the window on the right.

Printing: Right-click on the text you wish to print. Select, "Print," from the display menu.

E-mail: Highlight and copy the desired text. Open any web-based e-mail program in a new browser and paste the selected text into your e-mail message.

Help: Click on "Help" on the top right toolbar and select "Libronix DLS Help." You can either browse the Help contents or search Help by keyword.

Steps to Research: To begin, click on "My Library" on the top toolbar. This immediately opens the full table of contents. Double-click or right-click on a desired title to open it.

Right-clicking the mouse is a key to working quickly with the LOGOS program. Right-click just about anywhere and a short menu of commands displays. These menu options usually include what you wish to do. For example, right-click on a word and, at the bottom of the box menu, move the cursor down to "Selected Text:." You can then select, "Speed Search This Resource," "Speed Search All Open Resources," or "Speed Search All Resources."

To search for all occurrences of a Bible citation quickly, right-click on the Bible citation and move the cursor down the open box menu to "Selected Reference:." You then have several "Speed Search" choices including a search of the text you are currently using, all open texts or all resources in the LOGOS program.

To read one of the Church Fathers, open the "My Library" menu and click on "Fathers of the Church." LOGOS displays the full ten volume set of the Ante-Nicene Fathers. Further down on the menu you will find both the First and Second Series of The Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers.

Mark Records: This function is not applicable or available in LOGOS Series X.

Source List: The "My Library" tab at the top toolbar displays a master table of contents with a hierarchical listing of all the full-text books available in LOGOS Series X. There are some un-open titles in the program which the library has chosen not to purchase at this time.
