

[center this on top line of page] THESIS PROPOSAL

[center this, e.g.] Student: Ima Hogg
[center the date this draft was submitted to advisor, e.g.] Submitted: September 11, 2001

[center this] Thesis Title

[center general title, e.g.] Overcoming Unemployment in the U.S. During the Arab Oil Boycott:
[center the specific subtitle, e.g.] The Testimony of a Hump-Dryer in a Camel-Wash

[center this] Thesis Committee

[center this, e.g.] Joseph Wisdumb, Ph.D., Thesis Advisor
[center this, e.g.] Mary Hadalamb, Ph.D., Thesis Reader
[center this, e.g.] Harry Chestenback, J.D., Thesis Reader

[center this] Introduction

[Left-align a few paragraphs here in prose that introduce your thesis to your readers, and raise some of the questions related to your topic, and a sketch of how you will go about trying to answer them. In your final paragraph summarize the objectives of this thesis.]

[center this] Outline

[Left-align a preliminary outline here (using outline form and as much of the hierarchy, I.A.1.a.i., as you find necessary) that portrays what you think might be the logical flow of this thesis.]

[center this] Objectives

[Left-align specific objectives of the project and justification for its selection.]

[center this] Literature Review

[Left-align here a brief discussion of the content and ideas of literature and public affairs concerning the topic.]

[center this] Biblical Foundations

[Left-align here one paragraph that spells out the Biblical principles that you will use, or presuppose, in working with this particular thesis topic.]

[center this] Sources of Information

[Left-align here The main sources of information which may be needed (if the project involves empirical research), and a realistic appraisal of their availability (i.e., subjects, equipment, interviews, witnesses, data, and library resources). ]

[center this] Qualifications

[Left-align here one paragraph that spells out the qualifications you have for writing this particular thesis, such as relevant courses taken, jobs you have had, travel you have done, relevant foreign languages you know, and so forth.]

[center this] Selected Bibliography

[List here in proper Turabian form some sources, printed and electronic, that you have initial reason to believe will be relevant to your topic.]