

F-1 Student I-20 Program Extension Application

The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service (USCIS) allows students in the F-1 immigration status to apply for a Program Extension under certain circumstances. According to section 214.2(f)(7)(iii) of the Code of Federal Regulations regarding nonimmigrant classes, the Designated School Official can approve an Extension of Stay only after certifying that the student has “continually maintained status and that the delays are caused by compelling academic or medical reason, such as changes of major or research topics, unexpected research problems, or documented illnesses. Delays caused by academic probation or suspension are not acceptable reasons for program extension.”

If you anticipate that you will not be able to complete your degree by the I-20 expiration/program end-date, which is listed in Section #5 of your I-20, you will need to submit the required documents listed on the back of this page at least 1 month BEFORE your current I-20 expiration/program end-date. Students who fail to submit the required paperwork by the established deadline may fall out of lawful immigration status and may need to apply for a reinstatement to lawful F-1 status. Special Note: Because of the time it takes to prepare this application, F-1 students are advised to begin preparing it at least 2-3 months prior to their current I-20 expiration date.

► Please read the instructions on the back of this page very carefully for the steps you must follow in order to complete the Program Extension process.
